This is designed for through-deck or bulkhead mounting and has a detachable stainless steel handle. A lid protects a rubber seal from UV degradation. Four stainless steel machine bolts (provided) attach the plastic body through the cover into retained nuts, and the hose connections are smooth.

The pump body is accessed through removal of one nut and bolt: a clamping ring then swivels off. The cover can be positioned in one of four orientations.

This pump had the best performance of those with through-deck capability.
